Election of Species

1. This application contains claims directed to the following patentably distinct species of the claimed invention:

Fig. 1-2	constitute Species 1
Fig. 5-6	constitute Species 2

Applicant is required under 35 U.S.C. 121 to elect a single disclosed species for prosecution on the merits to which the claims shall be restricted if no generic claim is finally held to be allowable. Currently, no claims are generic.

Notice, that claim 1 could not be generic, because it is not clear how a plurality of switchable routes for observing an image projection related to lamp and screen switching. It could be applied to the switching the viewpoint position.

Applicant is advised that a reply to this requirement must include an identification of the species that is elected consonant with this requirement, and a listing of all claims readable thereon, including any claims subsequently added. An argument that a claim is allowable or that all claims are generic is considered nonresponsive unless accompanied by an election.

Upon the allowance of a generic claim, applicant will be entitled to consideration of claims to additional species which are written in dependent form or otherwise include all the limitations of an allowed generic claim as provided by 37 CFR 1.141. If claims are added after the election, applicant must indicate which are readable upon the elected species. MPEP § 809.02(a).

Should applicant traverse on the ground that the species are not patentably distinct, applicant should submit evidence or identify such evidence now of record showing the species to be obvious variants or clearly admit on the record that this is the case. In either instance, if the examiner finds one of the inventions unpatentable over the prior art, the evidence or admission may be used in a rejection under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) of the other invention.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

2. Claim 1-7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

For independent claim 1, it is not clear what is a plurality of switchable routes for observing an image projection and how a plurality of switchable routes for observing an image projection related to lamp and screen switching? It could be applicable to the switching the viewpoint position.

Claims 2-8 depend on claim 1.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

Art Unit: 2629

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

3. Claims 1-5, rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Majumder et al. (US 2004/0085477 A1).

As to claim 1, as best understood by examiner, Majumder et al. teaches a multiple-projection system for projecting one image on a screen by plural of projectors comprising (fig. 1,item 102, paragraph 0025) a plurality of switchable routes for observing an image projection, a compensation data preservation section for storing compensation data for correcting output characteristic of the projector corresponding to respective routes, and an image processing section for correcting and processing the input image signal based on the compensation data stored in the compensation data preserving section corresponding to the route used (fig. 1,item 112, paragraph 0033).

As to claims 2, Majumder et al. teaches a calibration means for calculating the compensation data in respective routes to store the data in the corresponding compensation data preserving section (fig. 1,item 112, paragraph 0033).

As to claims 3, Majumder et al. teaches a calibration means comprises a test image sending section for projecting and displaying the test image on the screen from the plural of projectors (fig. 1,item 110, paragraph 0033).

As to claims 4-5, Majumder et al. teaches a calibration means comprises any one of a CCD camera for detecting the test image projected and displayed on the screen, a spectrometer, a colorimeter and a digital camera (fig. 1, item 108, paragraph 0033).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claim 7 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Majumder et al. in view of Kleinberger et al. (US 2002/0030888 A1).

Majumder et al. does not disclose the plural viewpoint positions observing the projection profile on the screen, are switchably set, and, the route is switched by switching the viewpoint positions.

Kleinberger et al. teaches the plural viewpoint positions observing the projection profile on the screen, are switchably set, and, the route is switched by switching the viewpoint positions (paragraph 0250).

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to incorporate teachings of Kleinberger et al. into Majumder et al. system in order to use projection for one or more viewers (paragraph 0002 in the Kleinberger et al. reference).
